THE ANIMALS OF EARTH

– Monika Muranyi

The animals of Earth are not only here for biological reasons. They are here to connect with us and help us in our lessons to learn unconditional love and compassion, as we move towards peace on Earth.

What do you know about the animals of Earth, especially your pets and the ones that you love and care for? Would you say they have personalities? Have you ever met someone who seemed to communicate with animals? Often these animal communicators are called animal whisperers. Perhaps the reason for this name is because animals don't have an actual voice but they do "talk" to us through concepts. Their whispers reach us through the pineal and not through brain synapse.

Those who communicate with animals are able to pick up their request, distress or concern. Often this is conveyed through thoughts, ideas, words, images, emotions, sounds or sensations in the body. This type of communication is similar to when you communicate with your Higher-Self, your Soul, your guides and angels and the Creative Source of the universe. It requires energetic preparation and intentional connection, similar to when you enter a meditative state. This ability to communicate with the animals has been used for thousands of years by our ancestors and the indigenous of the Earth. It is an innate ability that exists in all of us.

One of the roles of why animals are here on Earth is to be loved and to love. In many cultures animals serve as surrogate children where they are loved and taken care of, giving their human companions an opportunity to express their compassion and experience unconditional love. For many of us this is extremely important and it helps to anchor our emotions and bring balance into our lives.

Is there any evidence of the effect animals have on humans? I think the best way to answer that question is to look at the increasing number of animal-assisted therapy institutions. These animals receive special care and training to allow them to be used in a variety of settings such as prisons, nursing homes, mental institutions, hospitals and in the home. Several studies have demonstrated that animals used for therapy in hospitals and nursing homes resulted in the following: reduced pain and anxiety, improvement in mood and comfort and a more positive outlook. In addition, assistance dogs assist hundreds of people with many different disabilities to help them with certain activities and day-to-day functions.

This special connection between humans and animals raises a question. Do animals have souls? Yes, but their souls are not like ours. Do animals incarnate? Yes, some do but again it is not in the same way as we do. Sound controversial and confusing? Let me explain.

While animals and humans both have souls it is only humans who have divinity within their DNA.

Humanity is therefore linked to a profound system of planetary change where Human consciousness changes the planet and drives spiritual evolution. Animal souls are part of Gaia's (planet Earth's) consciousness. This allows for the reincarnation of some animals, not all of them. The only animals that incarnate are the ones around humans. In other words, only those animals who have been influenced by Human consciousness will incarnate.

If love and companionship is generated in an animal, it sets up a system with their soul, and that system can be extended over and over and over. Most animals don't live long enough to be with a Human for their lifetime. There is a benevolent, loving system that allows for the extension of your time with your special animal, which is created just for you to continue their purpose of being with you for companionship and unconditional love.

Does all this sound too weird and spooky? I must admit that before my own spiritual awakening I would have been very skeptical about such a suggestion. However, my own spiritual logic and discernment tells me that such a system is possible. It was only after accepting such a possibility that I met an animal communicator who had an extraordinary story of how her own cat has reincarnated several times to be with her!

Laurie Reyon Anderson told me about her remarkable cat called Puddy literally saving her life in 1994 when she had a near death experience (NDE). During this NDE Laurie noticed her telepathy became highly activated and she was actually talking with her cat. When Puddy passed away in 2001 Laurie soon received a message that Puddy would be reborn on March 3, 2002 and would look exactly the same. Imagine Laurie's surprise when she found a litter of kittens born on March 3 with one of the kittens looking identical to her previous cat Puddy! The love affair between Laurie and Puddy continued and the two of them began working together to telepathically communicate with wild dolphins. I'm sure you think that all of this may be explained by "co-incidence" but Puddy has passed away twice since then and both Puddy number two and three have continued the tradition of being born in a litter of kittens on March 3. Perhaps there is some truth after all about a cat having nine lives (smile).

When you lose your beloved animal who has unconditionally given their existence to help you it is natural that you grieve for them. However, the good news is that they are able to reincarnate to be with you. These precious animals tend to reincarnate in the area where they passed over so that you can find them again, often within three months. Your special animal may come back as a different breed or sometimes cats and dogs will swap. But, when you look into their eyes they will show themselves to you as they are very much attached to your energy. If you don't find them again, there's no negative thing attached as they will simply go on to love humanity just as much and to help others just like they helped you.

This is the true beauty of the animals of Earth and the reason why they are here – to help and support humanity while we develop peace on Earth.
